The Honorable Michael S. Regan
Administrator
Environmental Protection Agency
1200 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20460

Dear Administrator Regan:

After months of antisemitic protests across university campuses, we've witnessed Jewish students verbally abused, physically assaulted, and barred entry to schools that they paid to attend.<sup>1</sup> In some cases, faculty and university leadership participated in these activities.<sup>2</sup> This created a hostile environment for the Jewish students and staff that live, work, and study at these universities, a potential violation of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act.<sup>3</sup> Many of the universities implicated receive millions of dollars from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in grants and

However, some Democrats are alarmed by what they see as antisemitism emanating from the protests. For example, a group of twenty-one House Democrats wrote a letter to Columbia's board of trustees calling on the school leaders to disband the protesters' encampment, which they called "a breeding ground for antisemitic attacks." contracts.<sup>4</sup> In order to ensure the safety of students and faculty, the House Committee on Science, Space, and Technology (Committee) requests EPA review compliance with Title VI for each university receiving Agency grants and contracts; provide answers to the questions outlined below; and brief Committee staff regarding: 1) how EPA verifies potential grant recipients are in compliance with the law, 2) what oversight, if any, EPA conducts to ensure continued compliance, and 3) what consequences should be expected if a grantee is found to be in violation of the law.

Since the October 7, 2023, attacks on Israel,<sup>5</sup> agitators across the country (a mix of students, faculty, and professional activists) have disrupted campus life and in some cases made it impossible for Jewish and other non-protesting students/faculty to safely attend classes or move freely through campus.<sup>6</sup> Agitators expressed bigoted views, including a desire to bring an end to Israel - the only Jewish state - and blatant threats against Jewish individuals. At one university in the nation's capital, protestors chanted, "[t]here is only one solution: intifada, revolution."<sup>7</sup> At another university, Jewish students were told that they are "the oppressors of all brown people," that they "didn't deserve to live," and they should consider themselves "Hamas's next target."<sup>8</sup>

It was more than just rhetoric. University administrators across the country allowed, and in some cases supported, these agitators to go well beyond protected speech – permitting them to commandeer university classrooms, office buildings, common areas, and other property – barring entry to Jewish students and professors.<sup>9</sup> This inaction emboldened these agitators, who occupied these spaces for weeks and ultimately resulted in destruction of property, unsanitary conditions, and violence.<sup>10</sup>

By refusing to enforce school policies, and in some cases giving into the demands of agitators, university leadership charged with protecting academic environments contributed to their degradation, allowing for the continuation of a hostile environment.<sup>11</sup> An open letter signed by over 100 Jewish students at Columbia University encompassed the concerns of students across the country: “[t]hose of us living on and off campus cannot come and go from our homes to campus as we please without fear of being threatened, harassed, or assaulted.”<sup>12</sup>

Any university receiving federal funding has a duty to promote equal opportunity to all students and to comply with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act. A Title VI statutory violation occurs when a university discriminatorily denies participation of researchers or students in federally supported programs, activities, or laboratories or when a university’s response to an alleged violation is deemed inadequate.<sup>13</sup> Violation of Title VI makes universities ineligible to receive Agency grants. EPA directs nearly half of its annual budget to state programs, non-profits, educational institutions, and other groups potentially involved in university operations.<sup>14</sup> In total, EPA provided $14.7 billion dollars in financial assistance through grants and contracts in fiscal year 2023.<sup>15</sup> This funding is an investment of taxpayer dollars subject to all federal laws, including civil rights law. Given the recent uptick in antisemitism at research institutions, EPA must hold universities accountable to Title VI requirements by ensuring recipients of financial assistance are cultivating equal opportunity for all and prohibiting discrimination.

It is critical for EPA to determine that universities are properly certifying grantees and ensuring that federal dollars are not actively funding Title VI violations.. To ensure students and researchers are protected from intimidation, the Committee requests EPA review compliance with Title VI for each university receiving grants; provide Committee staff with a briefing; and answer the questions below by June 20, 2024.

1. How often does EPA audit university compliance with Title VI and what is the methodology used for these audits?<sup>16</sup>
  - a. Does EPA believe the methodology and frequency of these audits have proven to be effective? Why or why not?

- b. What assessments and determinations does EPA make during these audits?
2. Over the last ten years, how many universities have been found to be in violation of Title VI because of these audits and how were they brought back into compliance?<sup>17</sup> Please provide examples.
  - a. Whether or not it was due to Agency audits, how many universities receiving Agency funding have been found to be in violation of Title VI over the last ten years? Please provide detailed information for each violation.
  - b. How many allegations and reports of Title VI violations were received?
  - c. Over the last ten years, how much money has EPA recovered because of these audits?
3. Who receives Title VI complaints for EPA?
  - a. Does EPA conduct its own investigations into Title VI violations? If so, which office?
  - b. How many FTEs are dedicated to the receipt and review of these complaints?
  - c. How many Title VI complaints has EPA received or referred?
  - d. How many of these complaints were investigated and who were they investigated by?
  - e. Has an independent third party ever verified your statistics regarding Title VI complaints? If yes, who and when? Please provide a copy of the report.
4. Over the last ten years, how many times has EPA suspended or withdrawn grant funding from a university because of an audit's findings?
  - a. How many investigations ended in a voluntary resolution agreement?
  - b. Does EPA publicly report the results and/or conditions of voluntary resolution agreements?
